USVI Soccer Association Senior Women National Team to play Curacao in CONCACAF W Qualifiers on St. Croix

The US Virgin Islands Soccer Association's Lady Eagles are prepared to continue their FIFA Women's World Cup campaign against Curacao on Wednesday April 6, 2022. This is the start of Round Two of the Concacaf W Qualifiers. The match will be played at the Bethlehem Soccer Complex, starts at 4:00PM and is free to attend. Following the Curacao match, the USVISA Senior Women Team will travel to St. Kitts and Nevis. They are scheduled to play St. Kitts and Nevis on April 12, 2022.

For the Group Stage of the 2022 CWQ (February and April 2022), the thirty participating women's national teams (all ranked three and below in the FIFA Rankings) were divided into six groups of five teams each. After CWQ Group Stage play, where each team will play a total of four matches (two at home and two away), the six group winners will advance to the final championship.

During round one in February, USVISA faced two strong opponents. Guatemala won the first match 9-0 in Guatemala and Costa Rica won 6-0 at the Bethlehem Soccer Complex on St. Croix.

The coaching staff is optimistic heading into round two. They are incredibly happy with the progress and development of the ladies demonstrated at the recent preparation camp held on St. Croix this pass weekend.

WTJX Channel 12 will stream the April 6th home match. Matches will also be available on the Concacaf Official App (subject to territory restrictions).
